

A Bereavement Guide

Bath Building Society

We're different because you are

Bath Building Society is here to offer you, and your family or friends, help and support, practical guidance and understanding, to help you through this difficult time.

Coping with Bereavement

Losing someone close to you can be overwhelming. We have put together this simple guide to help you with where to start during this difficult time. Please pick up the phone, drop into a Branch or Agency or you can contact us via webchat on our website at www.bathbuildingsociety.co.uk and we will help you in any way we can.

Before you contact us

- You will need to obtain a medical certificate. This will be issued by the hospital, GP or Coroner. You will need this to register the death.
- Register the death – you do this at the local Register Office. You may need to make an appointment, so it's a good idea to check before you go. Legally the death needs to be registered within five days in England, Wales and Northern Ireland and within eight days in Scotland. To locate your nearest Register Office and for Government advice please see www.gov.uk/register-a-death
- The Register Office will give you the documents needed to make funeral arrangements:
 - Certificate of burial or cremation.
 - Certificate of registration of death.
- Death Certificate – it's a good idea to request a few official copies of the Death Certificate, as you are likely to be asked for one of these when dealing with the deceased's finances.
- Locating a Will – funeral arrangements are usually made in the first few days following the death, so it is a good idea to try and locate a Will. The deceased may have included details of the sort of service they would like and financial provision to pay for it. The Society can help you access funds to pay for the funeral bill, please see the section on 'Payments from the Estate'. If there is a Will in place you'll need to advise the Executors immediately as they have responsibility for dealing with the Estate, including advising any financial institutions and ensuring that all property is secure.
- If there is no Will, an administrator will need to be appointed instead.
- A grant of Probate might be needed if the deceased's property or accounts are not in joint names.
- Funeral arrangements – most Executors contact a funeral director to help with the administrative tasks when arranging a funeral. More information can be found on the National Federation of Funeral Directors website www.nffd.co.uk and the funeral directors register website www.funeraldirectorsregister.com.

Applying for Probate

Once an Executor has been named, they need to apply for the legal right to deal with the person's Estate, known as a Grant of Probate. You may not need a Grant of Probate if the deceased's property or accounts are held in joint names and are being passed to the surviving account holder.

Each financial institution has its own rules, so even if you don't need to apply for Probate for money held with us, you may still need to apply if money is held with other organisations. You may need a Letter of Administration, rather than a Grant of Probate if there is no Will (or the Will is not valid), there are no Executors, or the Executors cannot or are unwilling to act. If there is no valid Will and you are the next of kin you can apply to be an Administrator in the following order of priority:

1. Married or civil partner of the deceased.
2. Child.
3. Grandchild.
4. Parent of the deceased.
5. Brother or Sister.
6. Nephew or Niece.
7. Another relative of the deceased.

More information can be found on the Citizens Advice website, their details can be found in the Useful Contacts section of this guide.

The duties of an Executor or Administrator

- Take an inventory of the Estate, including bank accounts, savings, insurance, property and other possessions.
- Value the Estate.
- Liaise with the utilities, Building Societies, banks, pension and insurance providers and Social Services.
- Liaise with the Department of Work and Pensions and the relevant local authority regarding any benefits which were being paid or may now be due.
- Apply for the Grant of Probate/Letters of Administration.
- Collect all assets and money due to the deceased's estate.
- Pay income tax, inheritance tax and any other taxes due, as well as any outstanding debts.
- Distribute the Estate to the beneficiaries.
- Sell or transfer property.
- Prepare the final account to the HM Revenue & Customs (HMRC).
- Provide a detailed statement to the beneficiaries of everything that was received and paid out by the Estate.

When you notify us

When you notify the Society to advise us of the death of a customer, you will need to bring the documents detailed below. We will need the original versions of any documentation and will take a copy and hand you back the originals.

If you are sending your documents in the post we will need to see either the original or certified copies. A certified copy means a document that has been photocopied and certified to be a true copy of the original by a UK Solicitor, Chartered or Certified Accountant, Doctor, Police Officer or Teacher. The document must be certified 'original seen', dated and signed, giving the contact details of the person certifying the copies.

If you are sending original documents, you may want to send these by recorded or special delivery post.

- Death Certificate.
- A completed copy of our deceased account registration form which is available on our website, at any of our Branches or Agencies or by calling our Customer Support Department on 01225 423271. You can also contact us via webchat on our website.
- Verification of your identity – we will need to verify the identity of the person registering the death and dealing with the Estate. We can usually do this electronically, but just in case this isn't possible, we would recommend that you be ready to provide us with documentation to prove your name and address. Please see our Acceptable List of Identification on page 8 of this guide for further details.
- The account passbook – if you are able to locate the passbook it is a good idea to hand it to us for safekeeping. We can photocopy the book and give you a copy for your records. If you are not able to locate the passbook, we will ask you to sign a lost passbook declaration.

Payments from the Estate

As soon as the Society becomes aware that a customer has died, any money held in the deceased's sole Bath Building Society account(s) will be frozen for the duration of the bereavement process. However, we understand that there may be certain bills that need to be paid. The Society can arrange to pay the following bills if there are sufficient funds in the account:

- Funeral Bill – the funeral director can send the funeral bill directly to the Society.
- Inheritance Tax – we will need to see a copy of the relevant Inheritance Tax form.
- Probate Court Fees.

Reviewing and closing the accounts

When you visit us, our specially trained Customer Advisors will review any accounts that were held either solely or jointly in the deceased's name. They will take copies of the documents provided and will talk you through what the next steps are. If you are unable to provide any of the documents listed on page 5, these can be dropped in or posted to us at a later date.

Once the documentation is in place, and any expenses have been paid, the next stage is to discuss the closure or amendment of the account.

- Joint Accounts – Any accounts held in joint names will be automatically transferred into the sole name of the other account holder, the account passbook will be amended or replaced, and the account holder can continue to operate the account.
- Sole Accounts with a balance of under £15,000 – The Executor or Administrator of the estate will be asked to complete the relevant section in the ‘Bereavement – request to close account’ form. Identification will be required if not already provided. Please note that if the Executor or Administrator is not a direct family member (such as a spouse, civil partner, child or parent of the deceased) then they will be asked to provide either an Original Grant of Probate or Letters of Administration for balances of more than £10,000.
- Sole Accounts with a balance of over £15,000 – The Executor or Administrator of the estate will be asked to provide either Original Grant of Probate or Letters of Administration and complete the relevant section in the ‘Bereavement – request to close account’ form. Identification will be required if not already provided.
- For Solicitors our probate limit is £25,000 – Please contact our Customer Support Department for any assistance required on 01225 423271, via webchat on our website or at savings@bibs.co.uk

The “Bereavement – request to close account” form will be handed to you at the initial meeting. If you have the time it can be completed that day, alternatively the advisor can provide you with a freepost envelope to post it to us. It is also available on our website or by telephoning our Customer Support Department on 01225 423271.

Bath Building Society acceptable list of identification

If you need to produce identification we will require you to produce either the original document or a certified copy of the document.
